JAMES MORRIS FALLS IN WELL AND DROWNS

James Morris, aged 34 years, a well known farmer of New Lenox township residing on the Henry Stein farm south of New Lenox met a tragic death Wednesday afternoon when he fell in a well and drowned. Shortly after dinner Mr. Morris went out in the farm yard to repair a pump on a dug well. He removed the platform and in some unaccountable manner he fell into the well which is 40 feet deep and has 34 feet of water in it. Mrs. Morris did not know that her husband was repairing the pump and thought he was in the barn. Later in the afternoon her father, E. L. Woodcock came over to help Mr. Morris assemble a new cream separator and it was then that Mr. Morris was missing. His wife called and receiving no reply became alarmed. The neighbors were notified and search was begun for Mr. Morris but no one thought of the well. About 4:30 the children came home from school and saw the well open and peering in saw their daddy's cap floating on the water. They rushed in the house and told what they had seen. The searching party went to the well and located the body. After the body was pulled out of the well it was found Mr. Morris wore a watch which had stopped at 1:30 o'clock which it is thought was the time the accident occurred. The body was removed to Joliet where an inquest was held. Mr. Morris leaves to mourn him his wife, three sons and one daughter ranging in age from two to nine years, three brothers, Henry and George of Manhattan, Willis of California, one sister, Mrs. Nellie White also of California. Mr. Morris had resided on the Stein farm for the past 10 years. Mr. Morris had trouble with the pump off and on and always repaired it himself. As no one witnessed the tragedy it is not known if he slipped or got dizzy and fell in the well. A pipe wrench was found near the well.

Victims of Auto

Paul Meier of Peotone and Wm. Hewsen of Orland Park who were recently arrested by Cook county detectives on the charge of selling and purchasing stolen cars, claim they are innocent and victims of a gang of car thieves of Chicago.

Several Chicago men were also arrested. According to the story of Hewsen and Meier as told in the court of Judge Fetzner in Chicago when the case up for a hearing on Wednesday, they unwittingly purchased these cars from what has since proved to be a stolen car ring in Chicago. When they bought these cars they had the police department of Chicago check over the numbers of the motors and the police found them o. k. In addition they received papers from a finance corporation and the numbers on these papers corresponded with the numbers on the car motors. Later it was discovered that the ring had changed all the numbers on the cars which had been stolen. Naturally the first ones to land in the hands of the law were the men who had purchased the stolen cars from this ring, even though innocent of any intentional wrong doing. They were released on bond. At the same time the Orland and Peotone men were arrested several Chicago men were also arrested. One of them, William Nabee has since been re-arrested on additional charges. The case has been continued to June 14th.

This case has a moral--Buy no cars from strangers. Hewsen had bought only one car for his own use which he has given up. Meier's had bought five cars and had sold them so the purchasers have to give them up and Meier has to make good the purchasers loss it is understood.

THREE BOYS ESCAPE FROM MOKENA JAIL THRU WINDOW

Last Thursday afternoon three boys clad in blue overalls ranging in age from 11 to 15 years accompanied by a dog strolled into Mokena and were held on suspicion that they had run away from home. They were placed in the village station room when it was found that the jail locks had been snapped shut by some one. The three boys crawled thru a window but their escape was noticed and chase was given. They managed to outwit their pursuers and hid in a field on the Chas. Eggers farm northwest of Mokena and as it was getting dark they were not seen, but their dog gave them away by barking. They were then brought back to the village jail and locked up. They refused to answer any questions. They were later turned over to the county authorities at Joliet. One of the boys is said to have been connected with a holdup sometime ago.

MOKENA ASSO. FAVORS GAS TAX

The Mokena Development and Hard Road Improvement Association at their weekly meeting last Monday night went on record as favoring a gas tax of some form as a means of raising more funds with which to push the building of hard roads in Illinois. The resolution in favor of such a tax was passed unanimously, but did not endorse the measure which has been killed but endorsed only "some form of gas tax which would provide for an equitable distribution of such taxes to all sections of the state."

Don C. Hall who was in Springfield the forepart of the week was wired on Tuesday what action the Mokena Association had taken on the gas tax measure.

A very important meeting is slated for next Monday night at the Mokena school house and everyone interested in Wolf Road and the future development of Mokena is invited to attend.

Considerable comment and excitement was occasioned here last week when a tentative county bond issue map was circulated showing that the Wolf Road was completely ignored under the county bond issue plan and that a road was suggested to be run off the Lincoln highway near the W. C. Schuyl farm in New Lenox township, go north under the Rock Island bridge over Hickory Creek, thence follow the present mud road by the L. G. Bruder farm, thence east thru the Cappel farms, thence thru the village of Mokena on the front street thru the Erickson farm east and then connect up with route 51. This map was not one as prepared by the county board map committee, but in some circles it is taken as indication of what may be expected. This map also showed the new proposed Southwest highway of Cook County as going to Joliet by way of Maple street road. It is understood that the map committee of the county board of Will county will have certain maps ready for suggested roads to be presented before the county board at their meeting June 13th. It is being rumored that a special election on the Will County bond issue may be held in September. Wolf Road has quite a number of opponents who are seeking to kill the proposed original routing from Kankakee to Joliet.

Early Sunday morning when Mr. McPearson went to the scene of the wreck to see if he could salvage any parts of the car, he was surprised to find that the wrecked car was completely stripped of all removable parts.

is working on the other hand to have Wolf Road paved as originally proposed.

Mokena P. T. A. Holds Second Annual Banquet

The second annual banquet of the Mokena Parent Teachers Association was held in the St. John Evangelical church parlors Tuesday evening. At 7:15 o'clock the guests took their places at the festive board after the invocation by Rev. W. J. Cramer. Following the banquet the guests were entertained by Messrs. Leon Tonn, Frank Hirsch, Clinton Krause and Wm. Lathrop in a school day sketch. Mr. Tonn took the part of Willie Green, a very nice boy and teacher's pet, Mr. Hirsch impersonated Ike Goldsilver a new scholar, Clinton Krause was Johnnie Red, a tough guy. Mr. Lathrop took the role of the Professor.

After this little sketch a trio consisting of Messrs. Tonn, Hirsch and Lathrop sang "School Day Sweethearts" and several encore numbers. Professor Worst a member of the Lockport school board and head of all hand work in the first, second, and third grades of the Chicago City schools gave a very pleasing address which was enjoyed.

During the course of the evening appropriate remarks were made by Rev. Mr. Cramer, Ona E. McGovney member of the local school board and N. F. Hieman, president of the Parent Teachers Association. A letter of well wishes and regrets was read from Rev. Glenn T. Beaty of the Mokena M. E. church. Rev. Mr. Beaty was on the program at the first banquet but was unable to be present this year.

Another feature of the evening's entertainment was community singing led by Miss Hall, and Mr. Lathrop with Miss Evans presiding at the piano. "How do you do" songs were sung about several of the members present and added to the spirit of good humor prevalent.

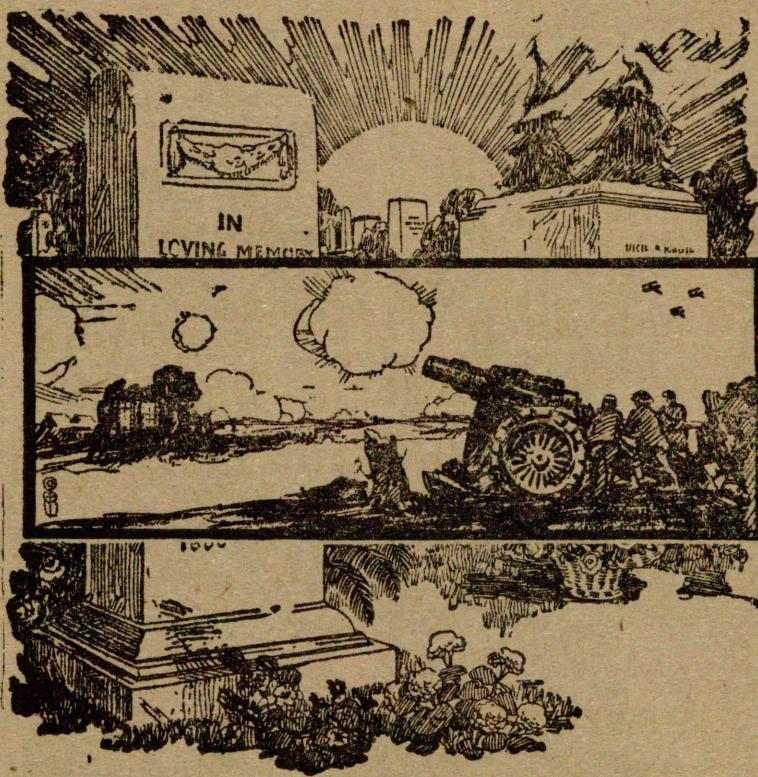

The decorative color scheme was in green and white with bouquets of snow balls and bridal wreaths on each table. At each guest's place was a green leaf with a few sprays of lilies of the valley. A large bouquet of tulips graced the front of the banquet hall.

About fifty-four guests were present. The committee has worked hard and faithfully to make the banquet a success and their efforts were much appreciated.

STALLED CAR HIT BY TRAIN

Frank McPearson of Mokena had a narrow escape from death Saturday night when the Ford coupe he was driving was struck by the west bound mid-night Rock Island passenger train at the Cappel crossing east of Mokena.

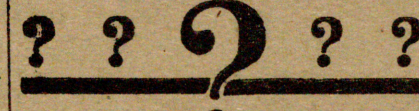

Mr. McPearson had taken his father to Blue Island and was on his way home when the accident occurred. As he drove on the crossing the radius rod of the car broke and the car was beyond control and headed up the track toward the approaching train. Mr. McPearson only had time enough to leap from the car and save himself. The car was completely demolished. The locomotive was damaged in the wreck, a cylinder head being broken. The train was delayed for half an hour.

Early Sunday morning when Mr. McPearson went to the scene of the wreck to see if he could salvage any parts of the car, he was surprised to find that the wrecked car was completely stripped of all removable parts.

FRANKFORT ELECTION BOARD GIVES TESTIMONY

Many witnesses are being called in the Election Contest being heard before County Judge Ralph C. Austin, wherein Alvah M. Weston, et al, are contesting the right of Sheriff Albert E. Markgraf to hold the office.

The Election officials of Frankfort were on the witness stand today the first to be called was Wm. Lankenau, Supervisor and Chairman of the County Board of Supervisors.

Mr. Lankenau testified that the election on November 2, 1926 was held at the Frankfort Hall, which was formerly called the Woodman hall. He said the building is about eighty feet by thirty feet and that only a certain portion was used. A railing three or four feet partitioned off the part used for the election.

Mr. Lankenau testified that he had not changed any ballots which had been voted or that he saw any clerk or judge do likewise. He said he never left the building during the whole day and that all the election board had their meals brought to them.

This testimony was also given by C. S. Scheer, Judge of Election and Walter Pfaff, William Wishover and Henry Geistler, Clerks of Election.

When the ballots were being recounted there were 33 ballots objected to by the petitioners as having been tampered with by someone. These ballots have been looked over by the petitioners handwriting expert, Jay Fordyce Wood, and in most cases showed a different pencil used for the Markgraf answer. Others had been heavily overwritten and Mr. Wood could not decide them bad ballots but held them doubtful.

County Clerk Albion Delander, testified that each precinct in the County are given election supplies and pencils for use in the booths and one was offered as evidence. This pencil is an election pencil and has no erasure on it but instead a ring and string attached so that it may be secured to the booth and will not be carried away by the voter.

The petitioners then put Frank Marino, Colburn Avenue, Joliet Township on the stand and he testified to having seen Robert E. Haley, Prominent Joliet Attorney and Election Judge at the 14th Joliet precinct erase and change ballots the day of election. Also that Wm. Brockman another Judge in the precinct go into the booth with at least twelve voters and show them how to vote. That Harold Markgraf, a nephew of Sheriff A. E. Markgraf voted four or five times in the 14th precinct, giving a different name each time he voted.

The cross-examination was conducted by Robert Martin, and he brought out the fact that Mr. Marino had asked the Sheriff for permission to conduct a disorderly house and sell home-brew. This permission was denied Mr. Marino, and Mr. Martin asked if that was not the reason for Mr. Marino's testimony. Mr. Marino said he had no grievance toward the Sheriff at this time and had worked in his behalf during the Campaign and election.

All Election Officials of the fourth precinct, Lockport, were called and the respondent asked that Mr. George K. Barto, an election Judge go over the ballots of that precinct and pick out any ballots that had not been initialed by him that bore the initials "G. K. B." Mr. Barto found five ballots that he thought he had not initialed.

Thomas Crabb Sr. another judge was called and testified that he had not initialed any ballots on election day.
J. F. McSherry, Democratic

Judge of the precinct was then called and testified that he had used the initials "G. K. B." on ballots given out during the noon hour. He was asked to look over the ballots and found twenty-three ballots that he thought he had initialed with "G. K. B." Of this number 13 had been voted for Markgraf and 10 for Weston. The three clerks testified that they had not initialed any ballots or given any out to the voters.

The Judges and Clerks of Plainfield Second precinct were called because Mr. Mooney, Attorney for Markgraf, had asked that they be excluded for the reason that they seemed to be three sets of "F. L."

Frank Lambert testified that all the ballots had been initialed by him and that when he had plenty of time he put more flourish on the initials than when he was busy. All other clerks and judges testified that they had not initialed any ballots.

The respondents then called an Edward Harvey, a colored man living on Ontario Street in the Township of Joliet and in the 14th precinct. The petitioners had previously produced an Ed. Harvey, colored, who said he had not voted. Mr. Harvey said his name was Edward Lee Harvey and that he was called Ed. Lee most of the time. He also testified that he voted at 1:00 P. M. or 1:30 P. M. and that he gave the name of E. L. Harvey. The name of Ed. Harvey is the last voter on the poll book and was voted after the poll closed at 5:00 P. M. and the name of E. L. Harvey appears nowhere on the poll book.

The respondent called Anton A. Tezak, 1407 Oakland Ave., who is now janitor of the Court House and Deputy Sheriff. Mr. Tezak was a Democratic Watcher at the first Joliet precinct on the night of November 2, 1926. He testified that he seen everything that happened there that night and was positive that William "Spike" Laughran was no nearer than two feet to the ballots that lay upon the table. Previously, William J. Bolton and Herbert Teufer had testified that Wm. "Spike" Laughran had his left hand under a pile of ballots and was tapping the top of the ballots with a pencil in his right hand. Mr. Tezak said Laughran was not in the polling place over five minutes while petitioner testimony fixed the time at from 7:00 P. M. to 7:45 P. M.

William "Spike" Laughran was next called and testified that he was working for the Straight Democratic ticket on election day and was placed as a watcher and challenger in the First Ward that day by the Democratic bosses. Mr. Laughran lives on May street but is better known in the first ward so was placed there for that reason, he said.

"Spike" testified that he was at the first precinct the night of election for not more than five minutes. He said he had gone home to eat supper and on the way back to the Democratic Headquarters he stopped to find out how George E. Brennan and Albert E. Markgraf were running there. After being told what the count was at that time he took a pencil and paper from his pocket and wrote the figures down and left the building. He passed William J. Bolton, about five feet from the door coming in as he was going out, he said.

He told of his meeting with Frank Pennuto, at the No. 4 Fire Engine House on Collins street where an argument started when he said Mr. Pennuto was soliciting votes within the fire engine house. Harsh words were used by both parties, he said, but he did not see William J. Bolton

Mokena, New Lenox, Frankfort Memorial Exercises

The Mokena Memorial Day Committee has completed plans for the annual Memorial Day program to be held Monday morning, May 30th at the St. John Evangelical church. At 10 o'clock a line of march will form at the church and proceed to the St. Mary, old Denney and St. John cemeteries following which the line of march will continue back to the St. John church parlors where a very good program will be rendered as follows:

Song by all America
Invocation Rev. Glen T. Beaty
Glee Club
Roll Call Wm. Semmler
Address Rev. J. J. Hitchins, pastor of Richard St. M. E. church
Glee Club
Remarks by Chairman of the Day
Rev. W. J. Cramer
Song by all Star Spangled Banner

As the committee has put forth a special effort to make this program worth while, everyone is heartily invited to be present.

The annual New Lenox Memorial Day program will be held at the New Lenox M. E. church on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Hoffman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Joliet will be the speaker. There will be special music. Following the exercises at the church a line of march will form at the church and proceed to the Maplewood cemetery where the graves of the soldiers will be decorated with flowers and flags by the school children. The pastor of the New Lenox Grace Episcopal church will deliver an address at the cemetery. Mr. Miner of New Lenox is in charge of the musical program.

Everyone is heartily invited to attend these exercises.

The Aschlar Band of Chicago Heights will furnish the music for the Frankfort Memorial Day program Monday afternoon. At 1:30 o'clock a line of march will form at the school grounds and proceed to the Pleasant Hill Cemetery where the children will decorate the soldiers graves, following which the line of march continues back to the school, where a fine program will be carried out. Attorney Elmer Biel-feldt of Joliet will be the speaker of the day. There will be special songs and other features. Everyone is invited. The business houses will close for the day.

there at that time and that he did not say, "we will win by fair or foul means" or "if we don't get enough votes we will steal them."

The cross examination was conducted by Attorney D. R. Anderson. Frank Tezak, brother of Anton A. Tezak, was another watcher at the first precinct or the Democratic party on election night and his testimony was practically the same as his brothers and Loughran's in regard to time and what he saw but on cross-examination it varied in great detail in several instances.

More witnesses are to follow and the final arguments are drawing closer but it is not expected they will be started this week. It is doubtful as to how many more witnesses will be called but it is most certain the case will go to the judge for decision by the latter part of next week or the forepart of the following week.

The senate has passed Representative Arnold's bill providing for the establishment of a fund of $250,000 for the relief of farmers in the Illinois river valley who suffered property loss in the recent floods and storms. The purchase of seeds and farm implements to enable farmers to begin work in the fields as soon as weather conditions permit is designated as one of the uses to be made of the fund and a commission is to have charge of its distribution.

Representatives of Alexander, Union and Jackson counties called upon Governor Small, to urge early and favorable action on house bill No. 592, which carries an appropriation of $275,000 to the department of purchases and construction for the restoration of levees along the Mississippi broken by the recent floods. Sixty-five thousand acres of valuable farm land is endangered as a result of these levee breaks, members of the delegation stated, and, unless immediate relief is given, it cannot be cropped for two years.

The proposed measure carries the following appropriations: Degonia and Fountain Bluff district, Jackson county, $50,000; Grand Tower district, Jackson county, $15,000; Preston district, Union county, $30,000; Miller Pond district, Union county, $15,000; Clear Lake district, Union county, $15,000; East Cape Girardeau and Clear Creek district, Alexander county, $40,000; North Alexander county district, $25,000, and Cairo district, $50,000. The bill is in the hands of the committee on appropriations.

A bill by Representative A. Otis Arnold, Quincy, creating the Illinois Valley Flood Control commission of five members and carrying an appropriation of $10,000 to carry out the provisions of the act was reported out by the house committee on appropriations with favorable recommendation. The commission is to make a study of the causes of the recent floods and submit a report to the next session of the general assembly. This commission is to consist of the director of agriculture, superintendent of waterways, one senator, one representative and one citizen living in the Illinois valley.

The gasoline tax has been advanced to the order of third reading in the senate. Consideration of the measure was postponed because of the death of Donald Meents, son of Senator Richard R. Meents, Ashkum, the sponsor of the measure. Young Meents, who was just twenty years old, died at Hollywood, Calif. A resolution on his death offered to the senate by Senator Harold Kessinger, Aurora, was adopted by a rising vote.

The house killed Senator Dalley's reapportionment measure by voting to nonconcur in the report of the committee, which asked for a bill. Representative Lee O'Neill Browne, Ottawa; led the opposition. Representatives Grover Hoff, Decatur; M. P. Rice, Lewistown; Alvin Warren, LeLand, and others also spoke in opposition to the report. Eleven down-state members voted with Cook county members in favor of reapportionment.

The racing bill, introduced in the house by Representative A. B. Lager of Carlyle, passed the senate by the bare constitutional vote, and will be considered soon by Governor Small. The bill provides for the legalizing of horse racing and the use of pari-mutuel betting machines at running tracks in Illinois. It passed the senate without amendment. If it becomes a law, it will become effective July 1.

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom has instructed Charles W. Vail, clerk of the State Supreme court, to prepare the record in the case involving the Illinois Central cutoff near Cairo for the purpose of an appeal to the United States Supreme court. Decisions of the state courts had been in favor of the Illinois Central railroad.

The senate committee on agriculture reported out with favorable recommendation Senator A. S. Cuthbertson's bill providing for inspection of grain in storage. The certificate issued as a result of such inspections may be used by farmers in business transactions. Iowa now has a similar measure in effect.

Representative Thomas Curran's bill for a $20,000,000 bond issue to purchase overflow land in the Illinois river valley for public hunting preserves was advanced to the order of third reading in the senate.

Senator Cuthbertson's bill, appropriating $50,000 for the relief of storm victims in Greene, Logan and other counties of central Illinois, passed the house. Republican Floor Leader Cutler in urging members to support the measure stated that others were being drafted to provide aid for flood and storm victims in other parts of the state. Both the Cuthbertson and the Arnold relief measures carried emergency clauses, and they passed to Governor Small at once for his approval.

Grundy county, with 11,185 head of dairy and breeding cattle tested and found free from tuberculosis, is ready to become an accredited area. This is determined from a report covering the third complete test of all the herds in that county, compiled in the office of D. W. Robison, superintendent of animal industry, and forwarded to S. J. Stanard, director of agriculture for his approval.

The progress made in Grundy county in the tuberculosis eradication program illustrates the work that is going on in a number of counties operating as areas. The percentage of reactors detected, in order for a county area to become accredited, must be less than one-half of one per cent of all the breeding and dairy animals in the county. The results of the three complete tests of the county's cattle population follow:

	Cattle tested	Per cent reacting
First test	11,372	.0604
Second test	10,938	.0181
Third test	11,185	.0043

In the third complete test, the number of reactors found was 49. A re-test of the 14 herds in which these 49 were found revealed 7 diseased animals which were removed from 6 herds. The 63 head left in these exposed herds remain under quarantine. According to the reports of testing going on in the counties operating under the county area plan, there will be a number of additional counties ready for accreditation within a short time.

The bill providing for the repeal of the search and seizure act, sponsored by Representatives C. H. Weber and Thomas J. O'Grady, Chicago, passed the house. The measure was amended on order of second reading to provide for referendum to the voters of the state, and this amendment won for the measure affirmative votes from members who have been classed as "drys." The bill now goes to the senate, and should it pass that body and be approved by the governor the way is paved for another state wide vote in 1928 on the liquor question in Illinois. Opponents of the measure believe that it will not pass the senate.

State Senator J. Francis Lochard of Milan, Ind., with Mrs. Lochard and their daughter visited the tomb of Lincoln. Senator Lochard told of the improvements that his state is planning to make at Lincoln City, Spencer county, Ind., where Lincoln's mother is buried and where Lincoln lived from the time he was eight years old until he was twenty-one. The improvements planned will cost between $50,000 and $100,000.

The senate passed a bill to prohibit the ousting of any constitutional officer by quo warranto proceedings. The measure was offered by Senator Richard Meents of Ashkum. Senator John Dalley, Peoria, in supporting the bill declared that under the present law the 102 state's attorneys of the state or the attorney general could file quo warranto proceedings against any constitutional officer.

The income tax bill has advanced to the order of third reading in the senate, not, however, without the addition of a number of amendments. Senator Woods, Chicago, offered the amendment providing that the measure be submitted to the voters of the state at the general election of 1928. This amendment was adopted. The income tax bill introduced in the lower house was killed in committee.

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom filed suits to dissolve 380 defunct Illinois corporations that failed to comply with the laws of the state by filing annual reports with the secretary of state for the year 1926. Last year there were 500 such suits filed in the various counties. This year, however, all cases are recorded in the Sangamon Circuit court.

Reversing the action of the subcommittee, the house committee on public utilities reported the McCluggage home rule bill out with favorable recommendations. The Dursio bill creating a transportation district for Chicago was also reported out for passage.

Senator Barr's bill, appropriating $300,000 for a monument for Illinois soldiers on the battlefields of France, was reported out with favorable recommendations by the house committee on appropriations.

Representative Mary C. McAdams, Quincy, introduced a bill to increase fishing licenses from 50 cents to $3 a year. The measure went to the committee on fish and game.

Senator Swift's bill, appropriating $100,000 to the state department of agriculture for the payment of cattle slaughtered in the tuberculosis test campaign, passed the senate.

Representative Tice's bill exempting veterinarians from jury service passed the senate. The bill now goes to the governor.

A bill introduced by Senator Thompson, Harrisburg, substituting electrocution for hanging in capital cases, passed the senate.

Marjorie Cutler, Lewistown, five-year-old daughter of Republican Floor Leader Reed Cutler of the house of representatives, is recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

COSTUME FOR BRIDE'S MOTHER; FROCKS FOR THE BRIDESMAID

WHAT shall the mother of the bride wear to her daughter's wedding? Likewise, who shall say what best becomes the mother of the groom?

As to matrons' modes for the fashionable wedding, what with a revival of the lace vogue as is for this season, the question is easily solved. The lace theme covers a vast range of ideas. At present leading couturiers preparation for June wedding festivities. At mention of frocks for the bridesmaids, visions of shimmering taffeta immediately rise before those schooled in the ways of fashion. The advent of the robe de style brings taffeta more directly into the limelight than ever, for no other fabric so yields to bouffant handling as does taffeta.

The exquisite tones and tints of taffeta always achieve a color scheme are artfully combining laces, that is they use black chantilly with white lace or with silver or even tinted laces. How successful the outcome one can easily judge from the comeliness of the exquisite model to the left in this picture. For this costume black lace is posed over a flesh-colored georgette foundation which itself has been handsomely enriched with insertions of creamy lace, the same showing a light embroidery of rhinestones and tiny colorful glass beads.

If the mother of the bride or the groom is interested in the popular black-and-white ensembles, "saying it" with lace is an highly endorsed by-the-mode way of solving the problem of "what to wear" to the wedding of the daughter or son of the house.

A lace costume in brown, in ecru or some modest tone is also recommended. With the beige or ecru lace dress, a brown malines hat with matched satin slippers would be in excellent harmony and style.

Beaded frocks, because of the slenderizing silhouettes they achieve, are of incomparable beauty. A walk in a flower garden on a summer's day will reveal no lovelier color than does a display of gleaming taffeta.

The bodice is usually semi-fitting for the taffeta frock and with little or no trimming. But the skirt, that is a different story. It is very bouffant, and hemlines are nothing less than temperamental. According to mood, they go up in front, down at back, veer sideways, or become deeply scalloped, or perhaps they acquire a deep border of tulle.

Typical of current bridesmaids' array are the two lovely taffeta frocks in the picture. These are models of American creative genius, being designed by members of the Fashion Art League of America. The frock to the left alluringly reveals a much be-ruffled petticoat of the silk, thus subscribing to the short-length vogue, at the same time acquiring quaint grace in the bouffant skirt.

Two style items are set forth in the gown to the right, namely, the introduction of a broad lace inset at ever a favorite with the matron. The one in the picture is in delicate pink worked with crystal beads and silver. The patterning purposefully shows vertical line effects.

Very smart, in fact, a latest style note, is the frock of colorful georgette print with long close-fitting transparent sleeves, and this may be charmingly adopted by the matron for wear at the smart midsummer wedding.

Comes now a season of joyful

Benefited by Violet Rays

In an English school the experiment was made of glazing the windows of one of the classrooms with glass which permits the passage of ultraviolet rays, and it is reported that the 30 boys, nine to eleven years of age, gained three pounds more in weight and a half inch more in height than a similar group of boys in a classroom with windows of ordinary glass, says the United States Department of the Interior Bulletin.

The children exposed to the ultraviolet rays were found also to have 8.63 per cent more coloring matter in their blood and their school attendance was 3.73 per cent better.

Nix on "Nuts" Avenue

When Colonel Nutts, staff officer to George Washington, returned after the Revolutionary war a street in his home town, Phoenixville, Pa., was named "Nutts avenue" in his honor. "Nut" having become an overworked slangy term, residents of the Pennsylvania town, tired of being kidded, have petitioned the council to change the street's name to "Valley Forge road."

Airplane to Be Fast

A new airplane that is claimed to be able to travel between Rome and New York in six hours and between Rome and London in one hour is being examined by experts in Europe. It is proposed to fly the machine at an altitude of 25,000 feet, where the atmosphere is so rarefied that there would be little air resistance.

Ignorance and Crime

Statistics on crime among the young in Czechoslovakia, recently made public in Prague, show that in the parts of the republic where opportunities for schooling were formerly lacking, criminality in youth is most prevalent.

Memorial Day, 1927

PARADE OF THE VETERANS ©G.Y. Buck

John A. Logan

ALL over the world—wherever there are men and women who claim the privilege of American citizenship—May 30 will be observed as the day on which we honor our soldier dead. For Memorial Day has outgrown its original significance as a day of remembrance for the men who wore the Blue and those who wore the Gray in the greatest civil war in history, the War Between the States of 1861 to 1865. America's soldier dead lie buried in many lands—in Cuba, in the Philippines, in Mexico and in France, Belgium and England.

In the environs of the City of Mexico there is a little cemetery in which a small granite shaft stands, bearing these words: "To the memory of the American soldiers who perished in this valley in 1847, whose bones, collected by the country's orders, are here buried—750." Memorial Day is a day of remembrance for those 750 Americans as much as it is for any of the hundreds of thousands whose graves in cemeteries in every state of the Union will be covered with flowers on May 30 of this year, 1927. Since 1918 the world-wide significance of Memorial Day for Americans has been more apparent because of the long rows of white crosses in England and France and Belgium. In a military cemetery at Romagne-sous-Montfaucon in the Meuse-Argonne region of France there are 14,045 of these crosses. In the Oise-Aisne cemetery there are 5,934; at St. Mihiel, 4,141; in the Aisne-Marne, 2,212; at the Somme, 1,816; at Suresnes, 1,506; in Flanders Field in Belgium, 865, and at Brookwood, England, '37.

And soldiers who are buried in great European cemeteries, and the 40,213, who have been brought home to rest beneath the soil of their native land, as well as the countless host of the dead heroes of the Civil war, the Indian wars, the Spanish-American and every other conflict in which the United States has ever been engaged, that Memorial Day will be celebrated this year.

If there is any one Memorial Day ceremony which is outstanding it undoubtedly will be that in the great amphitheater in Arlington cemetery near Washington where President Coolidge will voice the nation's tribute to its soldier dead. Around him will be grouped high government officials and ambassadors of foreign countries. But it will not be the presence of great men which will make the Memorial Day services there notable. It is the place itself which is the incarnation of the spirit of Memorial Day—Arlington cemetery, where stands the memorial to the "Unknown Dead" of the Civil war and where was placed the greatest of all American shrines, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Of all national celebrations, Americans have best preserved the original connotation of "holy day" for "holiday" in the case of Memorial Day. Untouched by the commercialism and the materialism which has crept into the observance of other special days, it has a dignity and a spirituality all of its own. Perhaps the fact that it was conceived in love and perpetuated in reverence has made it so.

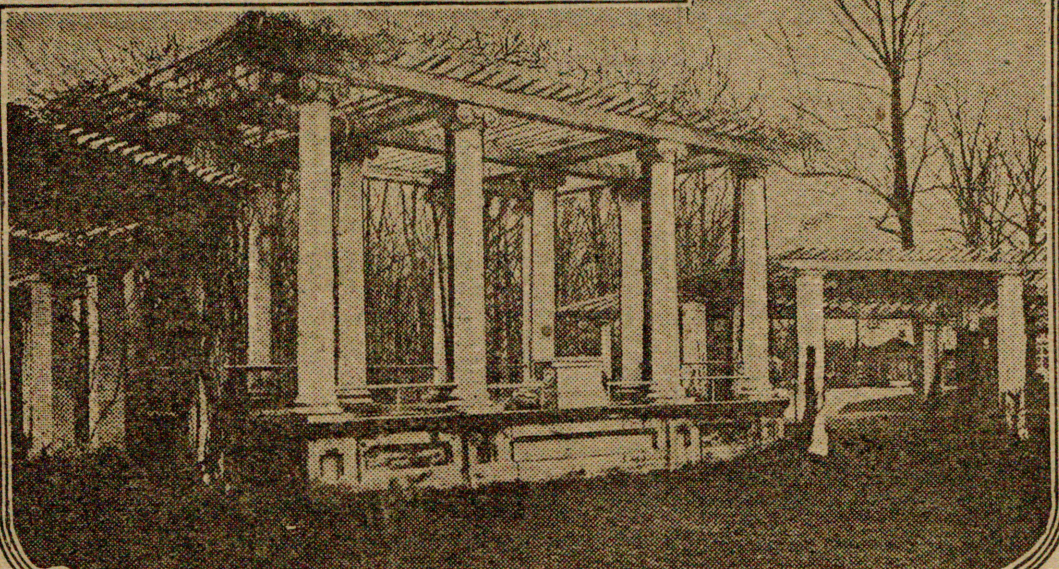

For it was the touch of a woman's hand, laying flowers upon the grave of an enemy—perhaps the very one who was responsible for the death of some one near and dear to her—whose example of loving kindness and forgiveness for past hatreds eventually brought about the observance of Memorial Day. In 1866 Miss Lizzie Rutherford of Columbus, Miss., suggested to the members of the Ladies' Aid society, who had been carefully attending the graves of Confederate dead, that April 28 be set aside each year as a special day for decorating these graves.

Her suggestion was at once adopted by the society and on April 23, 1866, the first Memorial day service was held in St. Luke's Methodist church in Columbus with Col. James M. Ramsey as the orator of the day. On that day the graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers buried near Columbus were decorated with flowers. In the meantime letters to women in other southern towns resulted in the adoption of April 26 for a general observance of a memorial day for the soldier dead.

In the spring of 1867 a New York newspaper published a paragraph in which this brief statement was made, "The women of Columbus, Miss., have shown themselves impartial in their offerings made to the memory of the dead. They strewed flowers alike on the graves of Confederate and National soldiers." In 1867 the nation was still bleeding from the wounds of the war, and anger, hatred and suspicion were still rife. But this action by the women in the South sent a thrill throughout the North and the following year, Gen. John A. Logan, national commander of the G. A. R., designated May 30 for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades.

How General Logan came to issue the famous order to his comrades of the G. A. R. which resulted in the observance of May 30 as Memorial Day, or "Decoration Day," as it was first known and as it is still often referred to, was related a few years ago by his widow, for many years known as "The Grand Old Lady of Washington." The story, as told by Mrs. Logan, follows:

The late Col. Charles L. Wilson, editor of the General Orders No. 11

"Headquarters Grand Army of the Republic, Adjutant General's Office, 446 14th Street, Washington, D. C. May 5, 1868.

"General Orders, No. 11. "I. The 30th day of May, 1868, is designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers, or otherwise decorating, the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village, hamlet and churchyard in the land. In this observance, no form of ceremony is prescribed, but posts and comrades will, in their own way, arrange such fitting services and testimonials of respect, as circumstances may permit.

"We are organized, comrades, as our regulations tell us, for the purpose among other things, of preserving and strengthening those kind and fraternal feelings which have bound together the soldiers, sailors and marines, who united together to suppress the late rebellion. What can aid more to assure this result than by cherishing tenderly the memory of our heroic dead, who made their breasts a barricade between our country and its foes. Their soldier lives were the reveille of freedom to a race in chains, and their deaths the tattoo of rebellious tyranny in arms. We should guard their graves with sacred vigilance. All that the consecrated wealth and taste of the nation can add to their adornment and security, is but a fitting tribute to the memory of her slain defenders. Let no wanton foot tread rudely on such hallowed grounds. Let pleasant paths invite the coming and going of reverent visitors and fond mourners. Let no vandalism of avarice or neglect, no ravages of time, testify to the present or to the coming generations that we have forgotten, as a people, the cost of a free and undivided republic.

"If other eyes grow dull, and other hands slack, and other hearts grow cold in the solemn trust, ours shall keep it well, as long as the light and warmth of life remain to us. "Let us, then, at the time appointed, gather around their sacred remains, and garland the passionless mounds above them with the choicest flowers of springtime; let us raise above them the dear old flag they saved from dishonor; let us, in this solemn presence, renew our pledges to aid and assist those whom they have left among us a sacred charge upon a nation's gratitude—the soldier's widow and orphan.

"It is the purpose of the commander-in-chief to inaugurate this observance, with the hope that it will be kept up from year to year, while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of his departed comrades. He earnestly desires the public press to call attention to this order, and lend its friendly aid in bringing it to the notice of comrades in all parts of the country in time for simultaneous compliance therewith.

"III. Department commanders will use every effort to make this order effective. "By order of John A. Logan, Commander-in-Chief. "Official: N. P. Chipman, Adjutant General."

Chicago Journal of that day, invited a party consisting of his niece Miss Anna Wilson (later Mrs. Horatia May), Miss Farrar, his fiancée (all now dead), General Logan, and myself, to visit the battlefields around Richmond in March, 1868. The importance of some measures then pending in congress prevented General Logan, at the last moment, from going, but he insisted upon my going with these friends. We made a tour of every battlefield, fortification, temporary barricade and cemetery around the erstwhile Confederate capital, driving about in old tumble-down vehicles, drawn by lean, faded horses, driven by thinly clad, poorly fed men, who had survived the long siege of Richmond. We saw the colored men, women and children digging out the lead and iron which had been shot into the fortifications, almost the only support of these wretched people. Visiting cemeteries and church yards, we were deeply touched by the withered wreaths and tiny flags that marked the graves of the Confederate dead. In the bleak March wind and light-falling snow, the desolation seemed most oppressive.

Returning together to the old Willard hotel, where we then lived, sitting in the parlor after dinner, we recounted to General Logan the incidents of the trip and how deeply touched we were by the devastation and ravages of war. In the churchyard around an old historic church at Petersburg, every foot of the ground seemed occupied by the graves of the Confederate dead. Upon them lay wreaths, once beautiful flowers, now crumbling, which had been placed there by loving hands. Little faded Confederate flags marked each grave, mute evidence of the devotion of the southern people to their loved and lost. General Logan was much impressed by our description, saying, "The Greeks and Romans in the day of their glory were wont to honor their hero dead by chaplets of laurel and flowers, as well as in bronze and stone," and that as commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic and member of congress from Illinois, which he then was, he would issue an order establishing Memorial Day, then called "Decoration Day." He declared at the same time that he believed that he could secure the adoption of a joint resolution making it a national holiday and a national ceremony. He then took up a pencil and paper and wrote the matchless order No. 11.

As a result of this order formal exercises were held at Arlington, Va. (later the site of the present Arlington National cemetery) on May 30, 1868, the principal ceremony being the decoration with flags and flowers of the monument to the "Unknown Dead," a memorial that had been erected to the memory of 2,111 unidentified dead found on the fields of Bull Run and the route to Rappahannock. The day was also observed in other parts of the country by strewing flowers on the soldiers' graves, in accordance with General Logan's order, but the term Memorial Day or Decoration Day had not yet been adopted.

The idea spread rapidly, however, and at the ceremonies held by the G. A. R. in Monument cemetery in Philadelphia on May 29, 1875, it was recorded that "the annual floral decoration of the graves of our dead soldiers has become a national custom." For it was doing much to heal the wounds of the war and, in uniting to honor their dead, the North and the South were forgetting the bitterness of a few short years before. One of the most significant bits of evidence of this occurred in Brooklyn when on the eve of May 30, 1877, a great throng assembled in the Academy of Music to hear the chief orator of the day—Judge Roger A. Pryor, formerly brigadier general in the Confederate army.

From that time on Memorial Day celebrations were increasingly a symbol of a nation reunited. Especially was this true of those which followed the Spanish-American war, in which sons of men who had worn the Blue fought and died beside sons of men who had worn the Gray. And it was even more true of Memorial Day celebrations since 1918. The World war has left America this heritage—a Memorial Day of broader and deeper meaning than it has ever had before. It knows no North, no South, no East, no West. It honors the fighting men of no particular war, but of all wars. It is a trumpet call to all Americans to pay reverent tribute to the memory of their honored dead—the AMERICAN SOLDIER.

Extreme of Cold Not

Found at the Poles

The coldest spot in the world is not at the earth's poles. The lowest temperature experienced in the North by Amundsen was 51 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. In the Antarctic, the lowest temperatures have not been much in excess of this figure.

East of a line drawn from the mouth of the River Ob to Lake Baikal, the subsoil is always frozen even in the height of summer. In the northern part of this immense region is the town of Verkhoyansk, which is the world's coldest spot. In January the average temperature is minus 60 degrees Fahrenheit, or 92 degrees of frost. In July, however, the average temperature is quite warm, at nearly 60 degrees Fahrenheit, so that, between the two extremes, the mercury in the thermometer actually moves 120 degrees. Not only is Verkhoyansk the coldest spot on earth, but it also experiences the sharpest difference between the summer and winter temperature.

Inside Stuff

There's an old saying that no man is a hero to his valet. One might also state that there are few secrets from the delivery boy. Max Cohen, having moved into his new home in Lankershim, asked the boy about certain people living farther up the street.

"Let's see," said the boy. "It can't be pork and no fat—that's number two. And it ain't two pounds of rump and juicy—that's number seven. Oh, I know who you mean! It's top side and tender and don't pay—that's the party!"—Los Angeles Times.

Girl Regains Buoyant Health

Wracked by a Cough, Worn Out by Sleeplessness, With Strength Undermined, Charming Belleville Girl Restored to Good Health by Tanlac. Gains 22 Pounds.

The amazing recovery of Miss Catherine Dinges, 400 Second St., Belleville, Ill., has excited a great deal of comment among her friends. "But it is not so surprising," says Miss Dinges. "A severe and persistent cough exhausted me so completely that I became alarmed, fearing that my health and strength would be completely undermined. I seldom slept, and tossed and turned all night, then I would get up tired and worn-out. "Now all the aimless days of drowsiness, sluggishness and exhaustion are gone. I feel and look better than ever before. I have a hearty appetite and my weight has increased 22 pounds. I give Tanlac all the credit for my marvelous recovery. Every woman should take it."

This tonic, made from roots, barks and herbs according to the famous Tanlac formula, usually builds up weak bodies, puts flesh on scrawny bones, frees the system of poison and drives out causes of pain. Get your first bottle from your druggist—today!

More Durable Steel

Steel, from ten to fifty times as durable as the ordinary kind, has been prepared at an Eastern plant, according to a recent announcement, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. It was made in laboratories several years ago, but at that time the necessary alloys could not be easily obtained. This handicap has now been entirely overcome, and the strength of the steel has been tested by extensive experiments.

Black Furs Dyed White

As the result of chemical experiments, black furs may be dyed white on a commercial scale. Through advances in dyeing, it is now possible to produce on furs effects such as formerly could be made only on textile fabrics, as printing, etching, stencil work and multi-colored effects.

MOKENA

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sippel returned Monday night from a honeymoon trip thru the southwest, the Hawaii islands and other points of interest.

The heavy rains of the past few days have turned the low lands, and ditches into lakes and raging torrents. Many cellars were flooded.

The farmers are greatly hampered in their field work. Very little corn planting has been done. In many instances old fields have been badly washed out.

Don C. Hall left for Springfield Monday afternoon to be present at the legislative hearing on the Wolf Road bill, Tuesday morning.

Owing to the rainy weather Sunday the ball game between the Mokena team and the Ridgewood team was called off.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Lathrop and Miss Hall were guests of the Rev. Glenn T. Beatty at a beach party at Evanston recently.

Mrs. Elmer Cooper and daughter Miss Florence spent a few days in Chicago with Miss Nellie Holt at the Chicago Training school and also attended the Woman's World's Fair.

The K. K. K. girls held a slumber party at the home of Miss Darling Saturday night and Sunday took in a show in Chicago.

Prof. Uhl took his class of boys of the M. E. Sunday school on a week end trip sight seeing in Chicago and Evanston. They remained over night as the guests of Rev. Glen Beatty at the Garret Dormitory. They saw a ball game in Chicago Saturday. Sunday they attended Sunday school at the Chicago Temple. In the afternoon they attended an oratorical contest at Orchestra hall.

The faculty of the Mokena Public School gave a luncheon and a theatre party in Joliet, Friday evening in honor of the approaching marriages of Miss Evans and Miss Thayer. The luncheon was held in Powell's restaurant followed by a theatre party at the Rialto Theatre. Each of the honored guests was presented with an electric toaster. On Saturday Mrs. Ferguson, the Misses Hall and Evans enjoyed a motor trip to St. Charles, Aurora, Batavia, Mooseheart and other points along the Fox river, the trip covering 100 miles.

Mrs. Clarence Uhl and Miss Thayer attended the Woman's World's Fair in Chicago Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCord of Palos Park were Mokena visitors Sunday.

ORLAND

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH
First Communion Day has been officially set for June fifth. The class consists of twenty children who have been attending instructions for three days per week in preparation. The Servite Father who is to conduct the mission during the week gave an impressive Sunday sermon on "The Grace of God." The missionary is from Our Lady of Sorrows Church, Chicago. The catechism class was delighted to receive its Sunday instruction from the missionary.

At the Sewing Circle Party given by Mrs. Wm. Heatherwick, Mrs. Matt Wagner and Mrs. Alfred Schelling at the latter's home. Eight tables accommodated the bunco players. Mrs. P. Hostert was awarded first prize. The second was won by Mrs. A. Welter and the third by Mrs. Newton.

Tentative plans are being outlined for the big annual Independence Day Picnic of the parish. Mr. E. Cowan, general chairman, is considering committees, ways and means. One hundred eighty-one dollars have been donated to expend on the major prizes.

The new Goodyear
All-Weather
Balloon Tire
with the new type
All-Weather
Tread

It's Here!

The World's Greatest BALLOON TIRE

Ever since Balloon Tires were introduced, Goodyear has been experimenting with tread designs to develop a tread which would match the Goodyear Balloon Carcass made of SUPERTWIST CORD.

Eighty different treads have been tried within the past two years and hundreds of thousands of miles run on test cars.

Finally, out of all these tests has come the new tire shown above.

It is the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread scientifically redesigned for Balloon use.

The first big advantages of this new tread are traction and resistance to skidding.

The sharp-edged diamond-shaped blocks are placed in a semi-flat design so that they not only grip the road but they retain their usefulness longer than any non-skid tread ever before tried.

The second big advantage is long, slow, even tread wear as opposed to the "cupping" and uneven wear so noticeable on many other Balloon Tires.

And with these virtues of traction, non-skid and long wear this new tread is perfectly quiet and does not produce the vibration of many non-skid designs.

With the Goodyear SUPERTWIST Carcass and the new, Goodyear Balloon All-Weather Tread, you have the safest, longest wearing, most trouble-free tire Goodyear has ever produced.

"Advices from Paris," continued the governor, "state that the Pretender has been called to the Louvre on two occasions for secret conferences. The duke of Berwick is gone to Spain—'tis reported to arrange for contingents of troops. Master Ormerod will understand the seriousness of such news.

"I need not acquaint you with the preparations the French are making upon this continent, but it may interest you to know that the duke of Newcastle has been pleased to write me, remonstrating over my inability to get along better with the prominent men of the province. This I deem most significant, for it is no more than the voice of Murray speaking through the medium of his grace's pen.

"I am in an impasse, gentlemen. In London a corrupt ministry is more interested in the spoils of office than in intelligent rule. In New York a powerful coterie of merchants, who have discovered a way by which they are persuaded, they can all grow rich in a few years, have permitted themselves to become the active tools of an ingenious mind which would purchase the return of the Stuarts at the price of handing over to French rule the British domain in North America.

"My sole reliance today is upon a few personal friends like yourselves—and the political keenness and military energy of the Iroquois.

"What I am about to say is of the utmost importance to Ta-wan-nears and his race. You have heard me admit my impotence. You know that the rule of the English is in danger. Will you, Ta-wan-nears, go with my ambassadors, Master Ormerod and Peter Corlaer, to the Ho-yar-na-go-war, the council of the roy-an-ehs, and support them in asking for the intervention of the Long House to smash the Doom Trail and Murray's conspiracy to win control of that fur-trade from our hands?"

Ta-wan-nears rose and his right arm went up in the Iroquois salute.

"Ta-wan-nears will do as Ga-en-gwa-ra-go asks," his deep voice boomed.

Governor Burnet drew a deep breath of relief.

"I thank you, my brother," he said.

"You have relieved the load of sorrows I have carried. I ask you this, you understand, not alone as a favor, an act of friendship, but because, as I think, your people will come to believe when they consider it that the success of Murray's plot will mean the crushing of the Long House by the French. By the way, 'Golden, where is the Belt of the Covenant Chain?"

The surveyor-general drew from a traveling trunk in a corner a band of wampum about three feet long and eight inches wide. Crudely woven into it in different colored beads were the figures of an Indian and a white man with hands joined. The governor examined it curiously.

"This belt was given to me by To-do-da-ho," he said, turning to me. "He bade me, at any time I required speech with him or desired his friendship and assistance, to send it to him as a reminder of his pledge of alliance. I entrust it in your hands, Master Ormerod."

Several hours later, when the lights of Albany were gleaming through the night, the governor said good-by to us at a Sally-port. He offered no parting advice, indulged in no rounded homilies. That was not his way. He had laid all his cards before us on the table; he had taken us completely into his confidence; he had told us how much depended upon our effort. He was content with that.

We set our feet to the Great Trail and made camp toward morning in the woods beyond Schenectady, deeming it best not to show ourselves in the settlements.

Our journey was uneventful. We rapidly traversed the Mohawk and Onondaga countries, and came presently to Ka-na-ta-go-wa, the seat of the council-fire of the Great League, where To-do-da-ho dwelt. To-do-da-ho himself was a wrinkled wisp of a man who would have seemed a corpse as he crouched down, burdened with heavy robes, but for the warm brightness of his eyes that glowed from under beaming brows.

He made me welcome in a speech of high-sounding phrases, which Ta-wan-nears translated; and I replied as best I could through the same medium, confining my remarks to expressions of the honor I felt in being so received and the affection in which the governor, whom he was held by the governor. We smoked the ceremonial pipe as usual, and the council broke up.

The real business was transacted the next day when we three had speech privately with To-do-da-ho, and I gave him the Belt of the Covenant Chain and the message of the governor. He heard me out in silence, and sat for a while smoking, his eyes fixed on vacancy. This was his answer:

"What Ga-en-gwa-ra-go says by your mouth is so. I have watched with uneasiness the efforts of the French to control the fur trade. So have many of our wise men, but most of our people are busy with their hunting and other affairs and they do not consider such matters. In this they are much like the white people.

"Ga-en-gwa-ra-go says that it is to the interest of the people of the Long House to break down the Doom Trail. I agree with him. But Ga-en-gwa-ra-go is a ruler of men, and he knows it is always difficult to induce a people to take a difficult course of action unless the suggestion comes from their midst. My counsel to you is that you continue on along the Great Trail to the country of the Senecas, and give the message of Ga-en-gwa-ra-go to Do-ne-ho-ga-weh, the Guardian of the Western Door.

"The Frenchman De Veuille has taken away the daughter of Do-ne-ho-ga-weh, and you tell me that he has used her to set up a foul religion amongst the renegade Keepers of the Doom Trail. Murray is equally guilty with De Veuille in this matter. Do-ne-ho-ga-weh has a just cause for vengeance against them."

"Will you support Do-ne-ho-ga-weh in a demand for an expedition against the Doom Trail?" I asked.

"I will," he replied.

There was no more to be said, and we resumed our journey that day. We sent messengers on ahead of us, and traveled leisurely, arriving at Do-nun-da-ga-a on the sixth day after starting from Ka-na-ta-go-wa.

The splendid old Guardian of the Western Door, attended by his counselors and retainers, met us at the village limits and escorted us to the council-house, where there was high feasting and a rendition of the dance which is used to open councils or welcome ambassadors.

Then Ta-wan-nears translated my message from the governor and the advice of To-do-da-ho. "Two things may be done, O roy-an-eh," I concluded.

"Ga-en-gwa-ra-go might take up the hatchet against the French on behalf of Go-weh-ga-wa and destroy the new fort at Jagara, or the People of the Long House might descend upon the Keepers of the Trail and destroy La Vierge du Bois and its wickedness. For Ga-en-gwa-ra-go to take up the hatchet would mean a long war, with much bloodshed, even if his people would obey him. For the People of the Long House to smash the Doom Trail would mean the use of one large war party and at most a few weeks on the warpath. If the Doom Trail is smashed you need not worry over the fort at Jagara, for with Murray gone Ga-en-gwa-ra-go can soon control his own people, and we will dispose of Joncaire in due time. 'Tis for you to choose."

"Yo-hay!" ("I have heard—I have understood") answered Do-ne-ho-ga-weh. "I am much pleased that To-do-da-ho suggested you should come to me. It is true, as he says, that the People of the Long House will be more eager to fight if the appeal is made to them by one of their own leaders. I will make such an appeal.

"We will summon a council of the Senecas to meet tomorrow. I will present what you have told me to them. We will send out belts to the Cayugas, the Onondagas, the Oneidas, the Tuscaroras, the Mohawks. You shall come with me to the Ho-yar-na-go-war and hear me make good my promises.

"Na-ho!"

CHAPTER XIII

The Council of the Roy-An-Ehs

The statesmen and warriors of the Senecas had come by hundreds to attend the tribal council at De-nun-da-ga-a. They squatted in serried ranks around the open place in the middle of the village where stood the ga-on-dote, or war post, where public assemblies were held, where war parties gathered when setting off upon expeditions, where prisoners were tortured and victories were celebrated.

The ceremonies were brief and were divided into two sessions upon different days. The first session was occupied mainly by the speech of Do-ne-ho-ga-weh, explaining why he had summoned the council and pleading for authorization of the sending of belts to the other nations of the League so that the Ho-yar-na-go-war might be convened.

"You have heard my cause, O my people," he framed his peroration. "You know that the French have ravished one of the fairest daughters of the tribe. You know that I have been deeply wronged. You know that at Jagara, on land which is our land as much as that on which you now sit, the French are building a fort, and that they boast it will be a chain by which they will bind us in the future. "You know that ever since Onontio came to Quebec the French have been our enemies, and the English have been our friends. You know that these men, Murray and De Veuille, who have stolen my daughter, who have debased our ancient religion, who have deluded so many of the white men, who have built the foul nest of fiends who guard the Doom Trail, are the servants of the French.

"I ask you for vengeance. I ask you for the right to go before the Ho-yar-na-go-war. I speak with a straight tongue. I have witnesses by me. One is my nephew, Ta-wan-nears. You know him. The other is a brother of the Wolf clan. They have found the secret of the Doom Trail, and they will lead our warriors to it.

"If you will follow them, O my people, you will gain rich spoils and take many scalps. The cries of your captives will delight your ears. Your families will be proud of you.

"Na-ho!"

The council broke up into separate councils of the five clans of the tribe. After the clan councils had come to agreement, the roy-an-ehs of the several clans, as spokesmen, met and reached a joint agreement. Their response was made at the second session of the tribal council on the following day by Ga-en-gwa-ra-go of the Turtle clan, the senior roy-an-eh of the tribe.

"It is the judgment of the council that belts be sent to the brother nations for the meeting of the Ho-yar-na-go-war. Let the counselors of the people decide what course is best."

That night the messengers were dispatched, and as they passed from nation to nation, the People of the Long House stirred with expectancy.

On the heels of the messengers flowed a steadily swelling stream of men, women and children.

The delegates of the Senecas found the Great Trail already choked with humanity when they set out from Nunda-wa-o a week behind the messengers. Senecas and Cayugas met and mingled with Oneidas, Tuscaroras and Mohawks, and Onondagas, crowded the extraordinary confluence of people with grave interest.

It must have been a week after our arrival that To-do-da-ho proclaimed the meeting of the Ho-yar-na-go-war for the next day. In the morning the delegations of the Six Nations left their headquarters, and marched with slow dignity to the council ground, a broad meadow on the edge of the forest above the river valley.

The deliberations of the council were begun, the direction of affairs passing from the Keeper of the Wampum to To-do-da-ho.

"We are met, O my brethren," began the venerable Onondaga, "to decide whether or no we shall lift the hatchet. Do-ne-ho-ga-weh speaks for the Keepers of the Door who ask for war."

There would be no point in repeating Do-ne-ho-ga-weh's oration. It was masterly, superior even to the address by which he carried his own people with him.

He explained succinctly the situation which existed in New York. A Cayuga responded, expressing amazement that the English, who were usually so sensible, should act in such a childish manner. He concluded by asking if the league might expect the help of the English in an attack upon the Doom Trail.

This was the most difficult point we had to overcome, and Do-ne-ho-ga-weh replied with circumspection.

"It is true, as my brother has said," he answered, "that we might expect the English to move with us in this matter. But my friends among the English send me word that their people are blinded for the moment by the falsities of Murray and the French. Their councils are divided.

"Ga-en-gwa-ra-go would welcome our action, and would support it and protect us from the vengeance of France. But he would find it difficult to act himself."

"If Ga-en-gwa-ra-go will not act, why should the League act?" demanded the Cayuga.

Gold Varies in Color; Is Not Really Yellow

Strictly speaking, gold is not yellow in color. It merely appears so, but, being a metal and generally with a bright surface, it acts as a reflector and throws back quite a lot of the white light that falls on it, according to the Philadelphia Record.

This reflected white light, which is not part of the color of gold, dilutes the metal's real color, making it appear yellow. The real color of the gold, metallurgists say, is a deep orange, entirely different from the familiar yellow.

But this precious metal has other colors as well as yellow and orange. Ground into a fine powder pure gold becomes ruby red.

Everybody has seen this ruby color at one time or another, though they may not have been aware that it was the color of gold they were looking at.

It is seen in the ruby glass used for photographic dark-room lamps, the minute particles of gold added to the glass imparting their deep color.

Wrong Way

Little Tommy had a sore toe, so his mother thought this a good opportunity to make him eat his cereal.

"Tommy," she said, "if you eat your oatmeal, it will cure your toe. Shortly afterward Tommy came to his mother with a very disgusted air.

"I ate my cereal," he said, "but my toe isn't any better. I guess the darn stuff went down the wrong leg."

PETER UNDAUNTED BY PERSECUTION

LESSON TEXT—Acts 5:17-42.

GOLDEN TEXT—We ought to obey God rather than men.—Acts 5:29.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Shows His Courage.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Speaks Bravely for His Lord.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Standing Firm Under Persecution.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Source of Courage.

The vindication of the house of God against the hypocritical act of Ananias and Sapphira had a salutary effect upon the people. The hypocrites were deterred from joining the church, but true-hearted men and women were all the more attracted to it, even identifying themselves with it. So great was the stir in Jerusalem that even the sick folk were brought there but the shadow of Peter might fall upon them.

I. The Apostles in Prison (vv. 17-18).

The marvelous success which accompanied the teaching of the apostles was too much for the Sadducees to endure. Their jealous wrath was aroused to such an extent that they laid the cruel hand of persecution upon these witnesses for Christ. Cain was jealous of Abel; Joseph's brethren sold him in slavery because he was the favorite of Jacob. Saul was jealous of David when the women ascribed greater glory to him.

II. The Apostles' Miraculous Deliverance (vv. 19-21).

1. The Lord sent an angel to open the prison and let the prisoners free (v. 19).

There are no doors, nor bolts capable of shutting out God's angel.

2. They were commanded to go at once and speak to the people (v. 20).

The message they were to deliver was the "Words of this life." Most likely this means eternal life through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

3. Their prompt obedience (v. 21).

By daybreak they were teaching in the temple.

III. The Apostles Tried (vv. 21-32).

1. The meeting of the council (v. 21).

In the early morning the Jewish council was convened by the high-priest.

2. Their perplexity (vv. 22-24).

The officer was sent to bring the prisoners, but lo, when they came to the jail it was empty. This news greatly perplexed the council.

3. The apostles again arrested (vv. 25, 26).

When one came with the news that the apostles were teaching in the temple, officers were dispatched to bring them before the council. They refrained from the use of violence because they feared the people.

4. The apostles questioned (vv. 27, 28).

The council demanded of them the reason for not heeding the charge which they had previously given that they should not teach any more in the name of Jesus. This persistent testimony the officers interpreted as an effort to bring the guilt of Jesus' blood upon themselves.

5. The apostles' answer.

Peter boldly replied that they were under obligation to obey God rather than men. He further told them that they were guilty of the murder of Jesus Christ and that God had raised Jesus from the dead and exalted Him to be a Prince and a Savior to give repentance and remission of sins to Israel, and also that He had made the apostles, with the Holy Spirit, witnesses of these things.

IV. The Result (vv. 33-42).

1. They determined to kill the apostles (v. 33).

Peter's stinging words cut to the quick, but their desperate wickedness filled them with murderous hatred instead of moving them to repentance. They could not answer the message, so the only way was to kill their accusers.

2. Gamaliel's counsel (vv. 34-39).

He advised neutrality, assuring them that if it be a work of men it would come to naught, but if it be of God they could not overthrow it because they would be engaged in the hopeless task of fighting against God.

3. The apostles beaten (v. 40).

While heeding Gamaliel's advice, they vented their rage by beating the apostles and charging them not to speak in Christ's name.

4. The behavior of the apostles (vv. 41, 42).

They departed with hearts full of joy that they were counted worthy to suffer for the name of Christ. They continued to preach Jesus Christ in public and in private.

An Undivided Heart

An undivided heart which worships God alone, and trusts Him as it should, is raised above all anxiety for earthly wants.

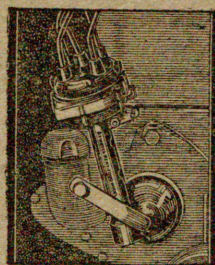

Salvation

Salvation has cost too much for God to give it to a person, when he is not hungry for it.—Echoes.

A lie should be trampled on, extinguished wherever found.—Carlyle.

Dupont—What is wrong, my friend? You do not look well.

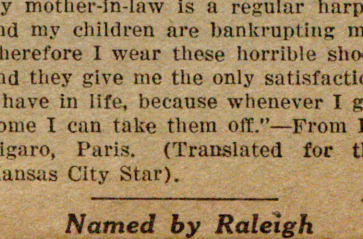

Durand—I'm all right, but my shoes are torturing me.

"Well, the simplest remedy would be to change them."

"No, I don't want to, and I'll tell you why. I have a shrew of a wife who makes me completely miserable, my mother-in-law is a regular harpy, and my children are bankrupting me. Therefore I wear these horrible shoes and they give me the only satisfaction I have in life, because whenever I get home I can take them off."—From Le Figaro, Paris. San Juan is perhaps better known as Dutch Gulana. It was discovered by Sir Walter Raleigh in 1585. He gave the name El Dorado to the territory.

Feel Stiff and Achy?

TO feel constantly lame and achy is too often a sign of sluggish kidneys.

Sluggish action permits waste poisons to remain in the blood and is apt to make one languid, tired and achy, with dull headache, dizziness and often a nagging backache. A common warning that the kidneys are not acting right is scanty or burning secretions.

Assist the kidneys at such times with Doan's Pills. Since 1885 Doan's have been winning friends the country over. Ask your neighbor!

50,000 Users Endorse Doan's:

George Faceire, 22 Orange St., Bridgeton, N. J., says: "My kidneys were not acting right and the secretions were scant and painful. Every morning I felt tired and languid and my back was so lame I had to have assistance in dressing. I started using Doan's Pills and in a short time was in splendid health. I gladly recommend Doan's."

Editor At Funeral of Relative

The editor attended the funeral of his mother's cousin Mr. Joseph Weltie held at the Evangelical Old People's Home at Bensenville, Illinois last Saturday afternoon. The pastor of the Evangelical church at Elmhurst preached the funeral service and officiated at the grave, interment being in Eden cemetery.

Mr. Weltie was born in Joliet and while yet a small boy his mother died and was buried in the old Deny cemetery at Mokena. For a while he lived in Mokena with the Martin Heim family and later he went with his father to live in Chicago and has resided there ever since. He attained the age of 77 years, 10 months and 10 days. He is survived by a half sister, several nieces and nephews and cousins of Chicago, and his cousin Mrs. John Semmler of Mokena.

Mr. Weltie entered the Home in 1924. Of late he was in very poor health and last Wednesday morning he was found dead in bed.

WORTH

The opening of the Infant Welfare Station Tuesday May 24 at the Worth Community church was a great success. It was a rainy day but in spite of the fact there were 10 infants there for examination.

Dr. Wright director of the county work, Miss Palmer the head nurse and Dr. Pronger of Blue Island assisted Miss O'Connor. The mothers seemed very well satisfied with the results of the examination.

Miss O'Connor has done some fine work in getting the Welfare station under way. She will devote much of her time to this work in the future. The station will be opened once a month and all mothers in Chicago Ridge, Worth, Palos Park and Orland will be welcome.

Thru the efforts of Mrs. R. Wilson and a group of younger girls in the community, we have been able to purchase a very fine set of scales which can be used for the Welfare station as well as the public school. This is surely a step forward. Those who contributed toward the scale will indeed feel more than repaid for the investment they made.

School Festival at Swallow Cliff
The annual school festival will be held at Swallow Cliff this year instead of the Sharp Shooters Park as in years gone by. It will be June 3. This is usually a great event in the school year.

Worth Baseball Team Wins
The Worth baseball team played Palos Park Sunday May 22. Worth won with a score of 16-8. The battery was Kenneth Lucas and Kopski for Worth and Kelly and Mahafay for Palos.

Commencement June 10th
The commencement service of the Worth school will be held Friday evening June 10 in the Worth Community church. There will be a special speaker from Chicago who will give the address of the evening. Mr. L. Macauley of the school board will present the diplomas to the graduating class. The church will be decorated in the class colors and a very fine ceremony is being planned for the evening. Miss Newer, the principal has been doing some very fine work getting the children ready for their graduation. Miss Anderson has also done some very fine work this year in her experiment with the lower grades. She has been trying some of the more modern methods of education which have proven very successful. Thanks to the work of Miss Newer and Miss Anderson the school has raised its standard to a great degree.

MEMORIAL SERVICE
There will be a big intercommunity memorial service at Orland Sunday evening May 23. The communities of Chicago Ridge, Worth, Palos Park and Orland will take part in the service. It will be at the Orland M. E. church and everyone is invited. The speaker of the evening will be Mr. Aronson of Chicago. The Orland choir will furnish the special music for the occasion.

Vesper Service Worth Church
Miss Ruth Mitchell who has charge of the Vespers service of the church arranged with the assistance of the junior choir a very impressive Vesper service Sunday night. It is planned to have a number of special vesper services during the summer. They will be composed of music and other elements of service that make for worship and meditation.

ALMA BRUEGGEMAN

ANNOUNCE LATEST GOODYEAR BALLOONS

The new Goodyear All-Weather balloon tire announced shortly after January first, is the most important development in the automobile tire industry since the introduction of the cord tire, according to Cooper & Hostert, tire dealers at Mokena.

"Ever since balloon tires were introduced, the Goodyear company has been conducting extensive experimentation for the purpose of developing a new and superior tread," Mr. Cooper said.

"Increased qualities of traction and a high degree of resistance to skidding are two of the major advantages of the new tread, while the sharp-edged diamond shaped blocks are built so that they grip the road and retain their usefulness longer than any previous non-skid tread used on balloon tires."

About a year ago Harry Brighton wrote to the state game department at Springfield asking for a setting of pheasants eggs. He was much surprised Wednesday of this week he received by prepaid express a basket containing a setting of 13 pheasant eggs and a bag of special feed to feed the pheasants after they are hatched. He also received a letter from the game department saying Governor Small had requested that the shipment be made in compliance with his request. Mr. Brighton will place the pheasants in Linden Garden when the eggs are hatched.

Wm. Siebrandt who has been residing on a farm with his mother now over 80 years old, died very suddenly a week ago Tuesday. He got up for breakfast and said he did not feel well and went back to bed and shortly afterward his mother heard him praying and a little later found him dead. Funeral services were held from the Mohr chapel at Oak Forest. Mr. Siebrandt came here from North Dakota several years ago after being away from here for some time.

Concrete Bridge Washed Out

Exceptionally heavy rains thru this section caused the Hickory Creek to overflow its banks and put the road on route 51 under water north of Frankfort. At the four corners north of Frankfort a small ditch became a raging torrent and overflowed the road. At New Lenox the creek went out of its banks and overflowed the north road at the Hacker subdivision.

A concrete bridge was washed out near the Kampe farm southeast of Frankfort and traffic is now being detoured on Lincoln highway.

THESE WOMEN'S KINDLY ACT SET WHOLE NATION A-THRILL

Memorial Day is one holiday that is truly a "holy day" which all Americans observe with befitting reverence. It is the day when we honor our soldier dead—the men who wore the Blue, the Gray and the Khaki.

But do you, as a good American, know how Memorial Day came to be? Do you know the romantic story of how the kindly act of a group of women down in a little town in Mississippi, while the bitterness of the Civil war still lingered, sent a thrill through the whole nation and how out of it the idea of Memorial Day or "Decoration Day" was born? Do you know the story of the famous "General Orders No. 11" which resulted in May 30 being chosen as Memorial Day?

If you don't, read the article "Memorial Day, 1927," by Elmo Scott Watson in this issue of the News-Bulletin.

Memorial Day will mean more to you if you do.

Last Sunday evening Mrs. Setterlund carried out a different service from the usual one. It comprised an evening vesper, several recitations, a meditation period of music and brief comments by the pastor.

CHRIST LUTHERAN CHURCH
German services Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Confession 9:45 a. m. German services Sunday June 5th.

The piano recital given by the pupils of Mrs. H. Adele Cooper at the M. E. church Wednesday night was well attended and the pupils did exceptionally well. Mrs. Cooper shall be pleased to enroll more new students. She is a very capable musician and has been very successful in her musical teaching.

The newly organized Lions Club held a meeting and a feed at the Christ Lutheran school Thursday evening.
